Richmond Evening Journal under date of February 27, 1911, was made the subject of an exhaustive examination. Mr. Davis, in his testimony, disavowed any reflection whatever upon Messrs. Hutzler, Catlin and Poindexter. --e stated emphatically that he "ad implicit faith in the integrity of these gentlemen, and that his sole object in making said statement in the public press was to inaugurate a more modern and effective system of administration at the school. Many men of the highest standing testified that, so far from being a "nursery for vice and crime," as charged by Mr. Davis, the institution is doing a great and good work. It was shown by undisputed testimony that Mr. Davis him-self had, throughout his entire incumbency of the office of superintendent, repeatedly made reports to the directors that the institution was in a prosperous and satisfactory condition.

Moreover, it should be added that, in the examinations of the Laurel Industrial School made from time to time by the State of Board of Charities and Corrections, we were invariably informed by Superintendent Davis and his assistant that the institution was In excellent shape, and that it was doing good work. Our board, however has more than once suggested to these gentlemen that the number of "families" be increased, and assurance was given us that this would be done as soon as practicable.
